

BRIDGEND 'BEBO' SUICIDES AND RITUAL VIOLENCE IN WALES

Summary

In Southern Wales 17 teenagers seemingly committed suicide through hanging in 2008 triggering national media coverage. In the same region several 'Satanist' offenders were successfully prosecuted since. This poster raises awareness of this 'suicide epidemic', Satanist criminality, a chilling 'Child Smuggling' operation and their potential link through an 'Organised Ritual Crime Abuse Network' (ORCAN).

Background

Natasha Randall, 17, originally from Blaengarw, was found hanged at her home 17 Jan 2008 and a girl who is believed to know her tried to hang herself in a copycat suicide a day later in Pontycymmer. Natasha was the 7th young person found strangulated within one year (see Figure 1) many of whom had profiles on the 'Bebo' social networking site. Her death created a media frenzy leading to unwelcome sensationalist newspaper headlines and even film productions:

79 individuals, most of them between 15 and 30, apparently took their lives in a gruesome procession of mortality between 2007 and February 2012. Most of them were by hanging, and only a few victims left a note. An article appeared raising the suspicion that some deaths may have been related to over-prescription of anti-depressant drugs and suggested, that the coronial system may have been used to suppress the evidence':

Satanic Cult & Asphyxaphillia

Self-styled 'Satanic' priest Colin Batley was sentenced in March 2009 for child sexual abuse offences in nearby Kidwelly. The cult's twisted ideology was based on a bizarre text called the Book of the Law by Aleister Crowley. His victim 'Annabelle Forrest', who got impregnated by Colin and forced into prostitution, wrote an account of her ordeal 'The Devil on the Doorstep: My Escape From a Satanic Sex Cult'. It features the death of Colin's son Damien who had been found hung in his bed room after he died accidentally in a bizarre Asphyxaphillia sex act that he recorded on his mobile:

False Prophet from Pontypridd

Disgraced 'Lost Prophets' singer Ian Watkins, from nearby Pontypridd, was jailed in December 2013 for sexual abuse of babies supplied by 'Superfan' mums whose names were unlawfully tweeted by Peaches Geldorf. She had made headlines shortly before that when she joined the O.T.O Satanist sex cult and was found dead one year after her tweet:

The former model and presenter's mum Paula Yates had been found dead in a similar way in 2000 with cause of death attributed to a heroin overdose. A visiting friend found her alone with her four-year-old daughter Tiger Lily at her home in Notting Hill. Her father Michael Hutchence was 1997 found dead in his hotel room in Australia – ostensibly due to an Asphyxaphillia act that went wrong. Orphan Tiger Lily was swiftly adopted by Bob Geldorf.

Blood Sucking in Bridgend

Albert and Carolee Hickmann were jailed in 1982 for child sexual abuse and sentenced again in January 2015 for ritual abuse in the 1970'ies when he was working at a RAF base near Bridgend. Reportedly she sucked her young victim's blood after cutting her thumb with a special "bejewelled knife":

Child Smuggling Case

In Autumn 2010 a young mother was manipulated through 'mind control' in Kingston-upon-Thames (see Kurz, 2015a) and Bridgend to settle in Pontycymmer. A 'Stalker' closely resembling a family member organised an 'unbelievable' harassment, defamation and intimidation campaign. For example police records show that the young family was intercepted by police helicopter (!) and two patrol cars on a hiking trip along a dismantled railway path. Apparently a named caller claimed that she had been feeding dog food to her toddler and that his nappies were stinking. Police found everything in excellent order. Another dozen incidents (see Kurz, 2015b) reportedly happened that cannot be proven. They seemingly were staged to 'fool' authority representatives into believing that the mother was 'delusional'. In October 2011 the 'Stalker' assaulted the toddler in a Cul-de-Sac in broad daylight. The mother followed police instructions to delay for several weeks reporting of the assault (see Kurz, 2016).

Arson & Murder?

On 28th December 2010 the toddler's nursery teacher's friend was found dead in the river adjacent to King Edward Street, Blaengarw:

It is disconcerting that the police spokeswoman said there are not believed to be any suspicious circumstances surrounding the death. Just a few weeks later on 29 January 2011 a row of cottages overlooking the area where the body was found went up in flames. Reportedly the deceased had been seen in a pub with the 'Stalker' and later arguing (see Figure 2 extract of submission ignored by authorities):

In between these two incidents the godmother of the toddler was found dead in her burnt out house across the Irish sea:

Authorities refuse to properly investigate these matters and took the toddler permanently 'into care' as mental health professionals considered the mother 'delusional'. Are authorities (including mental health institutions) in this region infiltrated by 'vested interests'?
